The positive results in the board's EQAO for the 2007–2008 school year indicate that the Renfrew County Catholic District School Board is on track to achieve the provincial target of a 75% success rate in the grade 6 results by 2010.

Our results for this school year are:

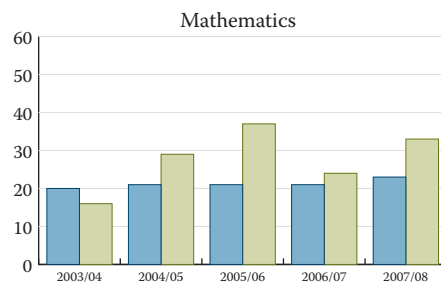

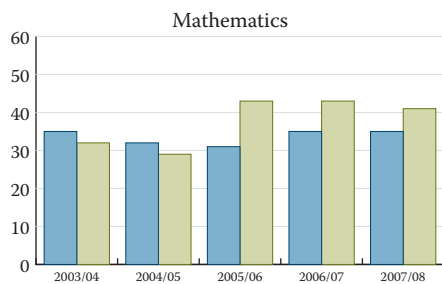

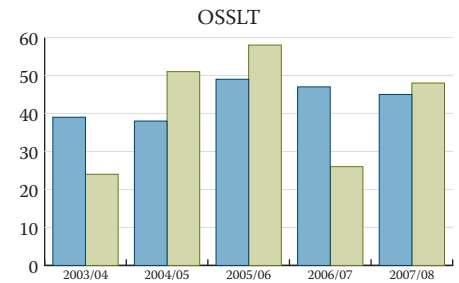

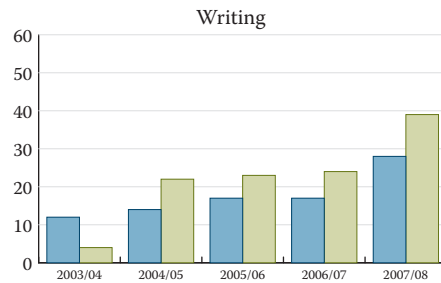

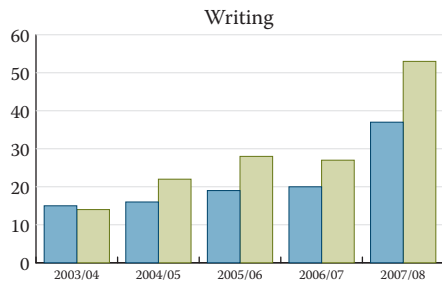

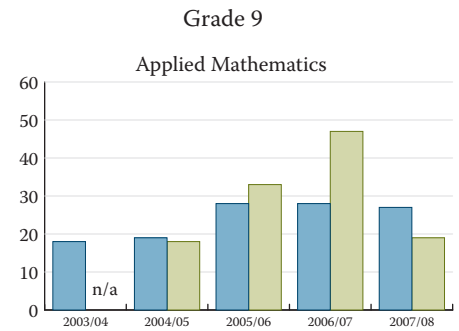

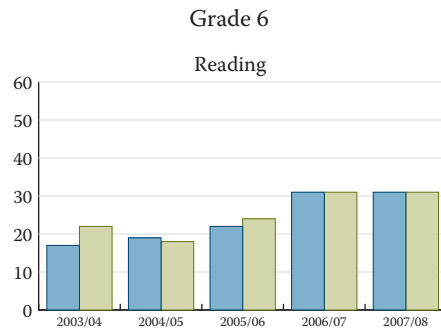

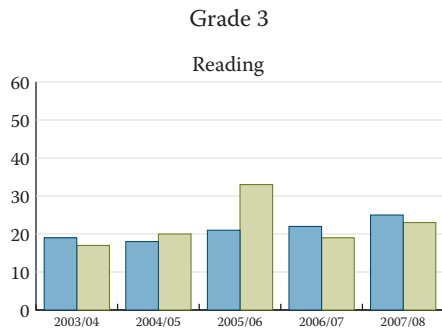

Reading – 73%

Writing – 71%

Math – 72%

The school reports of October 31, 2007 indicate that the Renfrew County Catholic District School Board had two learners whose first language is not the language of instruction for the 2007–2008 school year. Because of this low number, EQAO results for this student population are not available.

The following charts illustrate the EQAO results of students with special needs in the Renfrew County Catholic District School Board system. EQAO results are not available for grade 9 academic math special education because of the low number of students involved.
